

Devin Alexander

Media Personality, Keynote Speaker, Healthy Comfort Food Chef, Weight Loss Expert, Restaurateur and New York Times Bestselling Author Devin Alexander was the Chef on NBC's "The Biggest Loser" and the author of 9 cookbooks including "The Biggest Loser Cookbook" Series, "The Most Decadent Diet Ever" and the upcoming, "You Can Have It!"

Devin's unique approach to healthy cooking and her motivational personal story have landed her regular appearances on talk, news, weight loss and fitness shows for nearly two decades, making her America's Go-To Expert for decadence without consequence.

A close-up portrait of a woman with long, wavy brown hair, smiling warmly at the camera. She is wearing a bright red, short-sleeved top. The background is a soft, out-of-focus blue and white, suggesting an outdoor setting like a beach or near water. The overall mood is positive and professional.

FOODSERVICE SAVVY

- Consulted to a chain restaurant and overhauled their menu.
- 30 day partnership with a boutique hotel bringing people Devinly Decadence for the new year (that became the pilot for Devinly Decadence restaurant on Royal Caribbean).
- Devinly Decadence Royal Caribbean – licensed restaurants on two cruise ships, set up entire restaurants, launched at Aspen Food and Wine with rave reviews & killed it in the press.

Seven Things You'll Enjoy on Quantum of the Seas

11/14/2014

3. Devinly Decadence – We can't forget the food, can we? I love my tasty meals on cruises, and I've been known to overindulge. But this restaurant on Quantum of the Seas offers healthful, delicious meals in 500-calories-or-fewer portions designed by celebrity chef Devin Alexander of TV's "The Biggest Loser" fame. And the foods taste fantastic. I enjoyed a delish salad with Thai beef and papaya and samples of barbecue chicken flatbread (on whole wheat lavash), chicken satay and free range beef meatballs. The desserts are incredible, too.

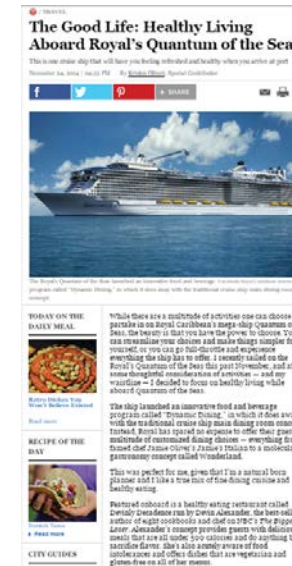

Featured onboard is a healthy eating restaurant called Devinly Decadence run by Devin Alexander, the best-selling author of eight cookbooks and chef on NBC's The Biggest Loser. Alexander's concept provides guests with delicious meals that are all under 500 calories and do anything but sacrifice flavor. She's also acutely aware of food intolerances and offers dishes that are vegetarian and gluten-free on all of her menus.

Her meals showcase her talent as a chef and commitment to using fine ingredients. Dishes like salmon-topped arugula quinoa salad and grilled chicken enchiladas made with corn tortillas are just a few of the options guests have to choose from. And for those who have a sweet tooth but don't want to overindulge, desserts like the chocolate peanut butter frozen yogurt pie are all made without any artificial sweeteners.

I also indulged in Alexander's smoothie bar after a grueling boot camp class offered in the gym. I spent a fast-paced 45 minutes performing high-intensity moves including squats, push-ups, and burpees. Post-class, I was, naturally, famished and looking to satisfy my hunger; however, I was cognizant of my calorie intake. I went straight to the Solarium for the smoothie bar where I sipped on a banana, peanut butter, and spinach smoothie that hit the spot.

Cruise Chefs Cater to Dietary Restrictions

While cruise lines have long offered a limited menu for passengers on special diets -- whether due to food allergies or intolerances, weight loss or simply healthy lifestyle choices - they are going much further in 2015. Royal Caribbean's Devinly Decadence on Quantum of the Seas, which debuted late last year, is an eatery in which all dishes have fewer than 500 calories. SeaDream Yacht Club didn't want to leave anyone out when it enhanced its tea service with gluten-free cookies so all can partake. In 2015, we expect to see cruise lines continue to make more (and tastier) food options for travelers with dietary restrictions, beyond the confines of the main dining room and without having to preorder.

RESTAURATEUR with RAVE REVIEWS

luxurious magazine

For both Natasha and myself, looking good and feeling good is very important and although copious amounts of delicious food may be a welcome treat to some, we prefer to enjoy food that doesn't come with a small burden of guilt and afterthoughts of hitting the gym, this is where Devin Alexander "steps up to the plate".

Devin is a renowned celebrity chef and author (along with being an extremely nice person) specialising in creating low-calorie versions of some of the world's most popular food. Here you'll find delights such as her take on the world's most famous burger, Bacon, Egg and Spinach Wraps, Chocolate Chip Pancakes, Chorizo Lasagna, Buffalo Grilled Chicken Salads, Greek Nachos, Pulled Pork Tacos, Chinese Pepper Steaks, Awesome Meatballs all at mindbogglingly low calorific levels. This is for us the perfect place to eat, chat and be merry. With Travis's Sushi offering and Devin's treats, Natasha and I could enjoy ourselves and walk off the Anthem of the Seas rather than being hoisted off at the end of the sailing.

During my time on the Royal Caribbean Anthem of the Seas, I was lucky enough to sample some of the food at Jamie's Italian. It was lovely, lashings of olive oil, great cheeses, meats and breads - put simply high-quality super-fresh food. Jamie Oliver, your food makes me happy :)

Luxurious Magazine You really should do Debbie, if you get the time you should also try Wonderland, and Izumi (Sushi). But overall, my #1 place to eat was Devinly Decadence - all my favourite foods but super low-calorie versions! It's by Devin Alexander who we should be interviewing soon. I enjoyed 'most' of my time on there, you can read my full thoughts here: <http://www.luxuriousmagazine.com/?p=36773>

DEVIN ALEXANDER
 Eat Without Sacrificing
 the Foods You Love.

Celebrity chef Devin Alexander used to weigh 200 pounds—a human double-helpling—but declared war on calories and made her name creating less fattening versions of all the foods we love to eat. Here, in her own words, is how.

When you have a good idea for a new business, you must first determine how you will finance it. You can finance it yourself, or you can get a loan from a bank or other financial institution. If you choose to get a loan, you will need to provide collateral and a business plan. The business plan should include a detailed description of your business, its market, and its financial projections. It should also include a list of your competitors and a description of your competitive advantage. Once you have a business plan, you can approach lenders and investors to see if they are interested in financing your business. If you are unable to secure financing, you may need to reconsider your business idea or look for alternative ways to finance it.
